LAST Tuesday was ground hog day.

The United States last week suffered a loss of $4,000,000 on account of fire.

ONLY a short time from now until the convention, meantime the candidates are seeing the people.

This is the shortest month in the year and thanks to kind providence it is the last of the Democratic administration.

It is an easy matter to name the first political party in the country, but you would have to get out a search warrant to find the second.

THE Senate's confirmation of an Illinois gold Democrat by 41 to 15 represents the waning of the Chicago platform. It is dead, and Popocrats do not care to be reminded of it.

ONE week from to-morrow the Republicans of Ohio county will meet in convention at their respective precincts to select delegates to the county convention, which meets at Hartford the Monday following to nominate candidates for the various county offices to be filled next November. The convention is an important one and every Republican should attend his precinct meeting and help select the candidates. Select good men for each office and victory will surely crown the Republicans of Ohio county next fall.

THE Democratic party at present is in bad shape, but no intelligent person expects it to fade away into utter disruption. No sensible Republican desires it. Two parties are a necessity, and it is better that both have age and ancestry, precedents and traditions, and a record to be judged by. Though the party by the name of Democrat has suffered a woeful defeat, it is not defeated so bad but what it can come again. The party represented by Bryan and his followers is as unlike the Democracy of Jefferson as darkness is different from daylight, but still holds the name of Democrat. Its teachings are dangerous, its record on all public questions shows that it stands without a principle in the United States. Its individual members are like the caste of a vessel shipwrecked far from land, they are catching at everything, laying all principles and former teachings aside and making a mad rush for self-aggrandizement. A Democratic party, it seems, that we must have, and it seems now that we have a Democratic party without principle, without any of its teachings and absolutely without any Democratic ideas whatever.

JUST now the Democratic party is undergoing the process of disintegration, which, curiously enough, it passes through at what might almost be called stated periods and regular intervals. Whoever reviews its history will observe not only the regularity of the recurrence, but the operation of the same antecedent condition and compelling causes. It has always quibbled and pottfogged to win; always been ready to sacrifice principle for votes, and the end of it has always been practical disintegration and collapse from incompatibility of the discordant elements, and then a new departure. That was the story of its fatal weakness before slave-holding aggression, which ended in such disaster. Since that time the party has coddled every folly in finance, from flat money to free silver; has cultivated the favor of every crank who had a constituency or a hobby; has, in short, baited its hooks and spread its nets for every sort of political fish that swims, from jelly fish to shark. In its hunger for office and eagerness for votes it shrank from sacrifice, refused no concession, but was ready to profess any thing so it gained votes. Hence the motley crowd of cranks and demagogues that constituted the Chicago convention; hence the silliness of their nominations, the wild outcries of their platform, and the wretched ineffectuality of their campaign management.

Protection is Right.

The Commercial is in favor of protection for protection's sake. It believes that the regulation of our commerce with foreign nations should be made in such a way as to favor American industries, and that our revenue should be collected in a way to give not only incidental, but direct protection to American interests. The Atlanta Constitution has been a free trade and a free silver paper, but it is honestly in favor of the development of the southern states, which embrace the most magnificent territory on the face of the known world.

The Constitution has the frankness to say that "there was not a democratic platform down to the day of James Buchanan that did not make some plea for protection in some shape." There will be no settlement of the tariff question which does not recognize the protection of American industries as an essential feature. —Louisville Commercial.

RENDER.

The candy party given last Tuesday night by Mrs. W. R. Reid in honor of Miss Lucy Jones, was well attended.

Mr. J. W. Neel, State agent of the United States Building and Loan Association, was in town a few days last and organized quite a strong local board.

Mr. W. W. Stone, whom we made mention in our letter last week as having disappeared from home, has returned.

Never before in the history of Ohio county has there been such an interest manifested in the nearing of a convention to select candidates for the Republican ticket. A large number of citizens have expressed their intention to be present on the day of the convention, February 13, which is called for this purpose, than ever was known before. And we might say here that never before have they had such a good field to select from. This together with the harmony now existing in the ranks of the party and with the knowledge of the importance of maintaining it should aid us to a closer perception of the importance of selecting the men who will with the greatest credit and most vigor uphold those principles that are sacred to every true Republican, and that can best aid in carrying our banner and pushing our cause to success. We have men in the field to-day who have proven their ability and competency, some by their work of three years ago, some by their official career and some by their valuable services in the late Presidential campaign as recognized by the official head of party. And now is the time to demonstrate to those men our recognition of same by giving them our hearty endorsement for the small reward they ask. So we would urge every Republican, white or black, to be present on the day of the convention in their respective precincts and aid in the selection of those men who are to be our standard-bearers in the next campaign, realizing, as we should, that we must have the strongest men for the ticket in the final election.

KRUML.

"Look Here Good People!"

Our buyer, Mr. Jones, is now in St. Louis buying a large stock of general merchandise including everything kept in a general store. Remember we buy with six large cash stores and get the very bottom prices. We now have in stock a big lot of grass and clover seed, also the celebrated Oliver chilled plows and repairs for same.

Fun for the Boys.

Who is he the first initial letter of his name is the initial letter of one of God's prophets who fled from the wrath of a vile and sinful woman; and the second initial letter is the initial letter of God's servant who was very poor and greatly afflicted, and the third letter is the initial letter of the initial letter of one of God's prophets who viewed the beauties of God's Haretag on the earth renowned for his faithful servants, and the three initial letters make the name of a tree of historical note and the three are initial letters of a nice young man who is corresponding with the Hartford Republican from Reader.

Answer on paper. May God bless the REPUBLICANS and the nice young man.

News and candidates scarce and in a few days the coop will be full.

AN OLD BOY IN BLUE

To the Republicans of Ohio County. The Republican convention will meet at your voting precinct next Saturday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. I wish you would all be in attendance and look after my interests in your convention. If my efforts in behalf of the party merit recognition I will appreciate the support of every precinct in the county. Between now and the convention I wish my friends would agitate the matter and speak to all the Republicans in their section and urge them to give me their support for Circuit Clerk.

My time has been spent every since I became a voter for the up-building of the Republican party in Ohio county. Owing to the limited time between now and the convention it will be impossible for me to see many more of the voters.

Trusting that my friends will leave nothing undone that will secure me the nomination in an honorable manner, I remain, Yours truly, SAM A. ANDERSON.

CANE RUN.

Messrs. Floyd Lancaster, G. T. Smith and Emmet Smith returned to their home in Meade county Saturday after a two week's visit to friends and relatives in this vicinity.

Mr. R. L. Cooper and Miss Tula Daniel were married at the residence of Mr. M. Hoover last Thursday.

Born to the wife of S. A. White a girl.

Rev. John Jarnagin preached here last fourth Sunday.

We are informed that Mr. S. A. White and R. H. Raley will start in a short time with a magic lantern show.

ANDERSON.

Bryan Still Ignores Populists.

It is simply wonderful how studiously Bryan ignores name of the populist party and populist press, who so gallantly supported him during the recent campaign. At the Jackson club, Chicago, he had an excellent opportunity to say a good word for populist papers, especially, but he didn't.

He said: "Let me call attention to another work which the clubs can do; they can encourage the support of those newspapers which are opposing the gold standard. No newspaper can long exist without readers, and unless the advocates of free silver are willing to support newspapers which represent their ideas they must expect to be without newspapers."

The democratic free silver party and flip-flop goldbug paper like the Schools News and the Washington Democrats, and hundreds of others democratic papers have gained official patronage of the work of populist papers and speakers. Does Mr. Bryan think these populist papers thus robbed and snubbed, which he does not even mention, will support him and his cohort of platform thieves. Bryan will hear from the populist national press on February 22.—[Free Republic]

Dr. Pendleton.

Dr. John E. Pendleton is dead. The announcement was not unexpected, but nevertheless painful to many of his warm friends. His friends were legion and all warm friends. There was about his nature a genial glow that was contagious. Generous, kind, full of tender sympathy for all mankind, he endeavored himself to all with whom he came in contact and bound them to him, not by hooks of steel, but the strongest bands of love that keep his memory in firm, fond embrace when his form has been laid in the grave. Dr. Pendleton was certainly a noble man in all that constitutes true nobility. A perfect gentleman, generous, kind, skilled in his profession which he loved because it enabled him to more effectually help his fellowman.

Ambition beckoned him to fairer, brighter fields, but love and duty held him fast to the friends of former days. He might have gained National fame. He seemed only to have reached forth and plucked the honors, but his friendship held him fast.

"Thy people shall be my people and thy God my God, where thou diest, will I die, and there will be buried," was truly his shibboleth. Hartford and Ohio county was better for his living there, and may it not be said, that the world is better because he lived in it? I loved him for his many noble qualities. He wore the gray, I wore the blue, but with many others of my comrades I do a tear of love to his memory. D O K I N G.

Of Interest To Teachers.

Superintendent of Public Instruction W. J. Davidson, has decided a point of interest to teachers. The question was referred to him on complaint from Fayette county, where trustees had employed teachers by the calendar month. He says that under the statute, twenty school days, and not all the school days in a calendar month constitute a school month, and that teachers should be employed and paid accordingly.

Just Received

75 bushels re-cleaned clover seed, 200 grass and timothy seed and lots of seed oats that will be sold at lowest cash prices. Big stock of Oliver Chilled plows and repairs. Squire Ellington.

Squire Ellington, of West Liberty, Ky., deserves honorable mention, and he is going to get it right here. Squire Ellington is a hearty youngster of eighty, whose specialty seems to be nephew, but he is not without other male relative, and evidently he brings them all up in the way they should go. At the last election Squire Ellington sent to the polls one brother, thirty one cousins and seventy five nephews. And the whole collection, as well as the squire himself, voted for McKinley and Hobart. So Squire Ellington furnished 108 votes against repudiation. He will be unjust to himself and to the rest of us if he consents to live less than 108 years. He is a man. —[Ex.]

A new book, "Knitting and Crocheting," of 64 pages, over 50 original designs illustrated, beautiful lace patterns, shawls, hooda jackets, etc., has been published by The Home, 141 Milk St., Boston Mass., and will be sent with a subscription to that paper. The Home is a 20 page monthly filled with original stories, literary and domestic topics and fashions. Its department of Fancy Work is a special feature, new and original designs each issue. The price of subscription is 50 cents per year and will include one of these books. As a special inducement, a copy of this book will be given with a 6 months' subscription. The price of book is 25 cents, but a 6 months' subscription and the book combined will be sent for only 15 cents. Their annual premium list for 1897 will be sent free on application.

Mr. W. M. Likens, one of the editors of the Beaver Dam Gleamer, a Prohibition paper at Beaver Dam, is an applicant for the position of State Organizer for his party in Kentucky. Mr. Likens has been a prohibition worker ever since he was old enough to do anything and has been quite successful. He was nominated by Ohio county in 1895 and in 1896 he was the nominee of his party for Congress in the 4th District. He is a young man, full of energy, and should Executive Committee of the Prohibition party select him to do their field work they will have a young man who is capable in every particular, and one who will attend to every part of the work in a first-class manner.

Mr. Berry Rial is in Louisville under medical treatment.

Mr. Jno. M. Shultz, of Sulphur Springs, is announced this morning as a candidate for Magistrate in the Hartford Magisterial District, subject to the action of the Republican party.

Mr. Shultz is a good man, a good Republican and if nominated and elected he will make a good official.

Messrs. C. M. Pendleton, Cincinnati; J. E. Pendleton, Kansas; Col. J. B. Nall, Louisville, were in town this week.

Notwithstanding all the efforts that Senator Jones, of Arkansas, and his National Committee could make in his behalf the free silver Democrats, Populists of Idaho turned down Senator Fred Dubois who bolted the Republican convention at St. Louis, and elected a free silver Democratic Populist. The Populists seem to have little use for free silver Republicans. They did in Washington as they did in Idaho, beat all the free silver Republican candidates and elected a Populist free silver Democrat.

Trouble in Weiland.

Owensboro, Ky., Jan. 28.—Word comes from McLean county that the fusion agreement has resulted in trouble. By the recent defeat the populists got the nomination for County Judge, but Judge Landrum, who has held the office as a Democrat for twelve years, objects to being side tracked. He will announce as an independent. Others may follow his course.

A SCOURGE OF LA GRIPPE

Is Raging Everywhere, Devastating City, Town and Country Alike.

Nothing equal to it has ever been known. We have had la grippe before in this country in several well defined epidemics, but not as we are having it now. Everybody, everywhere, has it, and it is expected to have it. In every paper we read of it. Every one we meet speaks of it. Perhaps the worst feature about la grippe is that it is almost sure to leave consequences behind it which are far worse than the original disease. But it could not have been otherwise than that some things have been learned, during these sieges with la grippe. Untold thousands have learned these things but a still greater multitude perhaps have these things yet to learn.

First, that Pe-ru-na taken before each meal and at bedtime will protect any one from having la grippe. Second, that Pe-ru-na taken every hour during the acute stage of la grippe will shorten its duration and prevent the long train of disagreeable consequences which follow the acute attack. Third, that in case where Pe-ru-na has not been used during the acute stage and the victim finds himself dragging out a miserable existence from the damage to his system accomplished by la grippe, he has only to take Pe-ru-na according to the directions on the bottle to realize a speedy and complete cure. The explanation of this is that la grippe is epidemic catarrh. Pe-ru-na will cure catarrh wherever located. It will cure catarrh of every variety and stage. Therefore it will cure la grippe, which is simply the epidemic variety of acute catarrh. During such a winter as this no one should be without a copy of Dr. Hartman's latest book which treats fully of la grippe, acute catarrh, chronic catarrh, coughs, colds, bronchitis, consumption and all other climatic diseases of winter. Sent free to any address by The Pe-ru-na Drug Manufacturing Company, Columbus, Ohio.

Farmers in Woodford county (Ky.) says The Capital, hold, of last year's wheat a quantity, estimated at from 50,000 to 60,000 bushels. They all hold this wheat for $1 to per bushel in money equivalent to gold, and reasonably expected to secure that price very soon. Silver is quoted in New York yesterday at 65 @ 66 cents per ounce; Mexican dollars at 50 1/2 cents bid, 51 1/2 cents asked. It seems that a "cog has slipped" somewhere in that free silver machinery that is supposed to keep the prices of wheat and silver at parity.

The most desirable residence in town.

For particulars see S. K. Cox.

Rev. Sam P. Jones will lecture at Sebree, Ky., on February 16. Several of our citizens are talking about going.

Merit Talks

"Merit talks" the intrinsic value of Hood's Sarsaparilla. Merit in medicine means the power to cure. Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses actual and unequalled curative power and therefore it has true merit. When you buy Hood's Sarsaparilla, and take it according to directions, to purify your blood, or cure any of the many blood diseases, you are morally certain to receive benefit. The power to cure is there. You are not trying an experiment. It will make your blood pure, rich and nourishing, and thus drive out the germs of disease, strengthen the nerves and build up the whole system.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the best, in fact—the One True Blood Purifier. Prepared only by C. L. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Hood's Pills Do not purge, pain or grip. All druggists sell.

Agos of Presidents.

President-elect McKinley was 54 years old Friday, January 29, and is consequently somewhat younger than the average of Presidents at the time of their inauguration. Fourteen were older than he is and nine younger. William Henry Harrison was 68, Buchanan 65, Taylor 64, John Adams and Jackson 61, Washington, Jefferson, Madison and Monroe, the Virginia Presidents and John Quincy Adams, each 57. Johnson 56, Benjamin Harrison 55, Van Buren, Hayes and McKinley 54, Lincoln 52, Tyler 51, Fillmore and Arthur, the New York Presidents, each 50, Polk and Garfield 49, Pierce 48, Cleveland 47 and Grant 45.

It will be noticed that beginning with Lincoln the Presidents have been much younger than in antebellum days, Johnson at 56 and Harrison at 55 being the only ones older than McKinley.

Polk is the only one of the Presidents who ever referred to his age in his inaugural, expressing "apprehension lest one so much younger and poorly endowed as himself should not have the ability to discharge the duties of the exalted station that had been possessed by the more aged and experienced statesmen that had preceded him."

There were five ex Presidents living when Polk and Lincoln were respectively inaugurated, but only one when Hayes came into office. His companion, Gen. Grant, and not more than two at any time since.

Many congratulatory telegrams reached Maj. McKinley last Friday and it was doubtless gratifying to him to dine in the evening as he did with his venerable mother, now nearly 83. A pleasure that has only been vouchsafed, under similar circumstances, to two of the Presidents

Roberts Defends Barnett.
Lexington, Ky., Feb. 1.—Chairman Sam Roberts, of the Republican Campaign Committee, gives out the following authorized interview to night, which is self-explanatory:

"My attention has just been called to a paragraph in a recent issue of the Courier-Journal, which intimated that friends of Dr. Hunter, intend to prefer charges against several members of the Republican State Central Committee at the next State Convention upon the ground that they worked against the nominees of the party at the last election. In this category is included Chairman C. M. Barnett, who is charged with seeking the defeat of E. T. Franks in the Second District.

"I don't believe any friend of Dr. Hunter or any reputable Republican ever uttered such a sentiment, and such a suggestion must have come from some marplot or mischievous wretch, bent on stirring up factional strife.

"Chairman Barnett early tendered his services to the Campaign Committee, and at his own expense made speeches in several counties of the Second and Fourth districts. I am sure Mr. Barnett gave Mr. Franks as loyal support as was possible, considering that they lived in different districts, and I have reason to believe Mr. Franks entertains the same view.

"I have never heard Dr. Hunter or any other Republican question the loyalty of Chairman Barnett to the party or its nominees in the late campaign, and I doubt if any reputable man ever suggested the possibility of charges being filed against him or any other members of the State central Committee."

You Can Be Well
When your blood is pure, rich and nourishing for nerves and muscles. Attorney J. E. Pogue was in Hartford this week.

The Boat Disaster.
Several of Hartford merchants lost considerable freight by the sinking of the Steamer Peanishaw last week. Capt. Server writes that A. D. White, Gross Williams, Thomas Bros. Williams & Bell and Pate Bros. have goods on the barge, which was saved. Among those who had goods on the boat besides the above mentioned gentlemen, were Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro., Carson & Co., Fair Bros. & Co., R. T. Collins, Henry Nall, George Klein.

The following letter from Capt. Server at Evansville, to Judge J. F. Carson explains the whole situation: Evansville, Ind., Jan. 31, 1897—Dear Sir:—No doubt you have heard of the sinking of the Steamer Peanishaw and all that part of the cargo which was on the steamer. The barge and its cargo will in all probability be saved as it is securely fastened as possible about 4 miles below this city, and we are using every effort to save the cargo, but the barge is so far from the bank and the ice not strong enough to bear the weight of the freight, it is extremely hazardous to undertake to remove the freight from it. We will do the very best we can to save the barge cargo. We are making arrangements for another boat to start as soon as the river opens. Severe weather will be the heaviest losers if not insured. We hope the Hartford freight was insured. I will be in Hartford one day this week. I send you a list of the freight for Hartford that is on the barge. Very Respy, CAPT. SERVER.

We can sell you a full size Redstead at $1.35, also one good Wardrobe for $7.50, one Bedroom suit for $15.00. Everything else in proportion.

Growing Children

One-third of all the children die before they are five years old. Most of them die of some wasting disease. They grow very slowly; keep thin in flesh; are fretful; food does not do them much good. You can't say they have any disease, yet they never prosper. A slight cold, or some stomach and bowel trouble takes them away easily.

SCOTT'S EMULSION of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites is just the remedy for growing children. It makes hard flesh; sound flesh; not soft, flabby fat. It makes strong bones, healthy nerves. It changes poor children to children rich in prosperity.

Book about it free for the asking. No substitute for Scott's Emulsion will do for the children what we know Scott's Emulsion will do. Get the genuine.

Improvements.
Hartford with her slack water navigation has made onward strides to perpetual improvements along business lines. We will soon have a telegraph line run into Hartford, and with the opening of spring Thomas Bros. will build a handsome two-story brick building on the corner where their grocery is now located, and early in next month two of our best business men will open up a large dry goods and clothing store in Hartford, which added to our already well equipped business facilities will make decided improvements in our midst.

The Illinois Central Railroad men are now looking into the feasibility of building a branch railroad to Hartford from either Me. Henry or Beaver Dam. Any one seeking a good location could not do better than come to Hartford.

Hartford Loses One of Her Best Citizens.

He Was an Able Surgeon and a Companionable Gentleman.

DIED SUNDAY AT 10:30 A. M.

Dr. John Edward Pendleton, the leading physician of Western Kentucky, and probably the most public spirited and accomplished man of this county, died at his residence in Hartford, Ky., after a long and painful illness, at 10:30 o'clock a. m. last Sunday.

The life and history of Dr. Pendleton is a complete and most beautiful object lesson; he was born in Washington county, Ky., on Sept. 1st, 1830, he had no brothers and but one sister, who, together with himself were left orphans when small children. Major Edward Berry, an old Revolutionary soldier and widower, and their maternal grandfather, took the children to his farm in Washington county after the loss of their parents; where the three lived together; he gave them such comforts and education as his large and busy farming interests and the ordinary country schools of the day would admit.

At about nine years of age Dr. Pendleton removed to Hartford, where he attended, for several terms, the once famous school of Mr. Frank Griffin, and afterwards—when only a boy—he returned to his uncle's farm, and assisted him in his large farming operations in this; that, he acted as his financial agent, and conducted his trading operations with buying, selling and carrying horses, mules and other live stock from Kentucky South, where he disposed of them to cotton and sugar planters.

The writer of this article has frequently heard Dr. Pendleton tell most thrilling and interesting stories of his history and experience while going South in the days of John Murrell and other highwaymen, and about the great and burdensome load his gold and silver returns would bear down and tire his youthful, but wonderful, strong and manly body, as well as the anxiety he had for the safety of his uncle's treasure.

Dr. Pendleton descended from a long line of surgeons and physicians of Virginia stock, and it is not unusual that he gave up the occupation of tradesman, upon the death of his uncle, and before he was scarcely grown, to pursue his instinctive taste for medicine and science. After reading medicine for several years he graduated with the title of M. D. from the Louisville University, which was, at that time, regarded as one of the most thorough institutions of the sort in this country. The chairs of the institution were all filled with such men as Drs. Mott, Wood, and the World Famous Surgeon, Samuel D. Gross, his friend, whom he afterwards followed to Philadelphia and took a Post Graduate course at Jefferson College.

At the age of twenty-five Dr. Pendleton was married to Miss Margaret Nall, the daughter of John G. Nall, of Hartford, Ky. To them were born five children—Mrs. Gray, of Kansas, Mrs. Taylor, of Hartford, Charles M. Pendleton, of Cincinnati, John Ed. Pendleton, Jr., of Kansas, and Dr. E. B. Pendleton, of Hartford. While these children were infants, and scarcely more than able to lispl his name around the fireside; the cause of the Rebellion so stirred the patriotism of Dr. Pendleton, that after making the best provisions he could for the maintenance of his young family, he recruited a company here, and started out to share the hard fortunes of the Confederacy as a soldier, with a commission as Captain, but he was not long in the service until the Commissioners of the Confederacy saw that his greatest service could be rendered as surgeon and physician for the alleviation of the sick and wounded belonging to the cause; therefore, he was almost at once, promoted to the office of chief surgeon of that famous Orphan Brigade, which has since been written in history as the most gallant and accomplished military band of men known to its annals. This honor was conferred upon him at about the age of thirty-three.

Dr. Pendleton's bright mind so attracted the Commander of the Confederate cause that he was from this station promoted to a still higher medical position called the Medical Board of Appeals for the Confederate Army; this board consisted of five members, Dr. Pendleton, Dr. Yandell, of Louisville; Dr. Eustis, of Georgia; some Doctor from Mississippi, and another Doctor from New Orleans. This board was what might be called the Supreme Court of matters touching medicine and surgery in the Confederate army; and, notwithstanding, Dr. Pendleton was the junior member of this board, his friend, Dr. Yandell, of Louisville, has been heard to say, that he was the brightest and ablest member of it.

After the fortunes of war had been declared against the Confederacy, and his last professional services had been given to his crippled, maimed and plague stricken comrades in the desolate path of Sherman's disastrous march to the sea, and without money or valuables made his way, through the South, to his Kentucky home. And when here he bought two horses on credit—one for his old body servant, who followed him through the was to start him into life as a freeman, and one for himself to begin among the practice of medicine as a civilian at Hartford, where he has ever since resided, and blest his community with, not only his wonderful medical skill, but with the good citizenship that has, at all times, placed him foremost in matters of charity and public improvements.

In 1869 his wife died; afterwards he married Miss Ida Nall, and to this union were born two children, Tula, now Mrs. Cummins, of Memphis, and Ion, who died an infant.

The concourse of sorrowing friends of every degree and station that followed Dr. Pendleton to his last resting place stoutly attested the warm place he had in the public heart. While his services as a citizen, friend and physician were always in demand and made his life a busy one, no object of charity was ever turned away from him without relief; it mattered not whether they wished his services or his money they were always cared for in the kindest and gentlest manner known to humanity. It is indeed inconceivable that so many acts of many goodness and greatness could have been crowded into one life. And with all that, Dr. Pendleton was never too busy to stop to give any intelligent account of current matters of public interest, of science, politics and latest literature. He loved nature and sympathized with every thing. While returning home from long and tiresome visits to distant patients gravely stricken with diseases, or where he had exerted such strength, care and labor in a surgical operation as would have exhausted the average man, he was never too tired to stop by the road side to relieve a sufferer of any kind; he would stop to bandage the leg or wing of a crippled bird, to adopt a wandering kitten, or to give an anesthetic or narcotic to any suffering dumb brute in the wake of his travels, and then upon reaching home his thirst for scientific investigation and literature would invariably interfere with his sleep until he had upon all means of improvement that had been furnished to his household during the day.

His skilled hand and cunning fingers did not only turn with scientific precision the surgeon's knife, but at times would turn to poetry in such rhymetrical and musical verses as would have caused a less modest master to claim the title of poet. Certainly so good and gifted a man as dear Doctor Pendleton rests well.

Heart Trouble Quickly Cured.
A Convincing Testimonial.

For 19 years I suffered from heart trouble. During that time I was treated by five different physicians. All of them claimed that I could not be cured. I was greatly troubled with shortness of breath, palpitation and pain in the side. If I became excited, or exerted myself in the least, the pain in my side became very severe. At times I seemed as though needles were shooting through my side. Sometimes in the month of November last, I commenced taking and since then I have improved steadily. I can now sleep on my left side, something I had never been able to do before. I can walk without being fatigued, and am in much better health than ever before. I would recommend all sufferers from heart trouble to try Dr. Miles' invaluable remedy without delay.

No Fusion in Hopkins. So it is to be a "straight Democratic" primary held on an old-time Democratic day, the first Monday in August. And the Populists who have been so deferred to and after by the office-seeking demagogues during the late campaign, are given an invitation to unite with the Democrats in their primary and support the nominees. But the platform that has so long been held out to them is withdrawn and put only upon the table of the silver Democrat, "their meat and their drink."

WHEN WE ARE DEAD The Stars Will Shine as Bright as Ever And the World Continue to Move.

If We are Faithful We Shall Experience the Splendors of a Blessed Eternity.

NOT CREATED FOR A DAY.

When then? The stars will shine in the sky and the world will swing in its orbit. The changing seasons will continue to bring seed time and harvest. Men and women will keep on marrying and be given in marriage. The marks of trade will resound with the eager tumults of contending voices and halls of revelry will echo the strains of voluptuous music. Farmers will drive their panting teams through green fields, and scholars will pore over curious books in great libraries.

Policemen will scramble for office, and men of science will persevere the secrets of nature. All things will go on as before. Our absence will not stop a single wheel in the vast machinery. For a little while some kind hearted friend that was good enough to love us in spite of our faults may make an occasional visit to our graves, but even that will soon cease. The very children that we have held in our arms, becoming absorbed in other interests, will forget to name our names or remember our faces. In a few years, at most, all traces of our presence upon earth shall have vanished away. The individual man however strong and effective he may be, leaves the faintest impression behind him.

Shall we, then, be careless as to how we depart ourselves while we are here? Shall we, on account of the brevity of our probation and the narrowness of our sphere of action, surrender ourselves to the base notion that does not matter what course we take? Not so. We are bearers of a trust. Were our task a thousand times more exalted we should still be under obligations to walk by the requirements of the moral law. The main thing, after all, is to do our duty in the sight of God that when we go hence we may enter into the possibilities that lie before us in another world makes a noble life worth living in this. We were not created for a day, nor for an age. It is our destiny, if we are faithful to know by experience the splendors of a blessed eternity. The grave question for us, then, is not how the world will look when we are gone. In regard to that we can well afford to be indifferent. But we dare not be indifferent as to what shall be our condition in that other world of silence and mystery, from which no traveler ever returns. He who puts all such inquiries aside as morbid fancies that have no practical bearing upon the secular ventures that fill his hands and engage his thoughts, is very unwise. For a rational creature the gravest and most important of subjects will be the consideration of those issues of our being that reach into the order of spiritual and invisible things. [Pythian Advocate.]

Your Boy Won't Live a Month. So Mr. Gilman Brown, of 34 Mill St., South Gardner, Mass., was told by the doctor. His son had lung trouble, following Typhoid Malaria, and he spent three hundred and seventy-five dollars with doctors, who finally gave him up, saying: "Your boy won't live a month." He tried Dr. King's New Discovery and a few bottles restored him to health and enabled him to go to work a perfectly well man. He says he owes his present good health to one of Dr. King's New Discovery, and knows it to be the best in the world for lung trouble. Trial Bottles Free at Williams & Bell's Drug Store.

A Catastrophe. The train was roaring about forty miles an hour, and the conductor was busily punching tickets full of holes, when a little thin old man who sat in one of the corner seats plucked his sleeve.

"Mister conductor, you be sure and let me off at Speers Station. You see, this is the first time I ever rode on steam-cars, and I don't know anything 'bout them. You won't forget it, eh?"

"All right, sir; I won't forget."

The old man brushed back a stray lock of hair and, straightening himself, gazed with increasing wonder at the flying landscape, every now and then exclaiming, "Gracious! By gum!" etc. Suddenly there was a crash, and after a number of gymnastic moves that made him think of his school-days, he found himself sitting on the grass of the embankment alongside the track. Feeling another passenger sitting a short distance away, patiently supporting various parts of the splintered car across his legs, he cried, "Is this Speers Crossing?"

The passenger, who was a drummer and not altogether new to such happenings, replied with a smile, although in considerable pain.

"No; this is catastrophe." "Is that so," he irritably exclaimed. "Now I knew that conductor would put me off at the wrong place."

—From Harper's Round Table.

A young Christian county farmer, who was adjudged insane, said, as he left the court room, that he had been crazy since he voted for free silver. [Courier-Journal.]

Every newspaper man has at some time in his business experience met the man who now takes more papers than he can read. He is the man who paid twenty-five cents for an almanac, wiped his nose an evening, tried to blow out an electric light, put a nickel in the postoffice expecting the post master to appear, wanted to lick the cashier because bank closed at four o'clock, and does many and various other things that make it plain to the most casual observer that he really does take more papers than he reads. He is numerous in every community and we must bear with him patiently. [The Mail.]

Fusion in Union. The democrat-Populist fusion arrangement in Union county don't go any more. The Silver Democrats discover they are strong without their allies and the proposed division of pie is knocked into a cocked hat.

The following resolution was adopted by the Democratic County Committee at Morgantown Saturday the 16th instant. "That if the nominees of the Populist party chosen by that party on January 30, 1897, to represent this county in the next General Assembly comes pledged to and does submit his claims to the Democratic Primary and all other Democratic rulings and canvases and to act in accordance with the Chicago platform, and the populist make no other nominations for county officers. The Democratic committee in consideration agree and will recommend and request that the Democratic voters vote for him in preference to other candidates."

There is very little comfort in this to the Populist but that little is swept away by the attitude of the Democrats as shown by this editorial comment in the Telegram:

"We are utterly unable to understand why in this, a county possessing a Democratic should indulge in such an unprecedented absurdity as that of which they were guilty on last Saturday when they accepted the above resolution. Besides being entirely uncalled for and utterly unnecessary it is also extremely doubtful whether the committee in this ignoring those candidates who have submitted their claims to the Democratic action, will be upheld by the Democrats of Union county." [Bee.]

Mr. Wm. J. Brown, the "boy orator of the Platte," seems to have lost his powers of oratory as well as whatever reputation he may have made for originality of thought before the last presidential campaign. A friendly critic says of Mr. Brown's recent lecture at Atlanta, Ga., that it was a complete failure in every respect, and that had the lecture been repeated the next evening without charge for admission, a respectable sized audience could not have been secured. The matters discussed by the lecturer were old and common place, and the fire and vigor of oratory which had at one time characterized the speaker seemed to be exhausted. [Frankfort Capital.]
